Unicorn Stories for Kids Elisabeth Potter 2020-08-05 Want your child to use the imagination more with unicorns? Fantasy serves an essential and vital purpose to us. Anyone who enjoys reading knows that reading can take us anywhere the author's and our imaginations choose to guide us. Reading transports us to another time or place. By reading, we not only learn about things that we have never seen but also learn about things that never were in this world. Fantasy enables us to live in the land of never was. And that, in turn, allows us to create our own stories and worlds. Imagine how dull life would be with no fantasy. Fantasy fuels our dreams and imaginations. That fuel is called inspiration. Inspiration is the basis of creativity. Creativity is what invention comes from. All that starts with fantasy and a vivid inner world. The best way to nurture that inner world in children begins with the bedtime story. When we remember our childhood, most people have early memories of their parents reading to them before bed. Those bedtime stories filled our dreams and fueled our imaginations as we grew. Thanks to those stories, we imagined ourselves flying in the sky with birds. We grew and became fairies with butterfly wings. We played dragons and unicorns. We went back in time, interacting with pirates, knights and dinosaurs. Our fantasy world cheered us when we were sad, and made us smile. This book covers: What is Meditation for Children With Techniques Self Esteem, Compassion, Empathy Techniques to Calming and Relaxing 20 Unicorn Bedtime Stories And Much More... Storytime before bed is a bonding time with your mom or dad or both. Kids are soothed to sleep with the sound of their mother or father 's voice. The story of bedtime is the inspiration for the dreams that your child might have at night. It's also a food for the child's conscious mind as they go about their day. Children are also strongly influenced when it comes to personality traits. Our children learn through stories many of the values and character traits they will hold on to and hopefully demonstrate later in life as they grow up. Children are learning who they want to emulate, who they want to be and how to treat other people. There's one extra benefit with fantasy stories, their mind and imagination work out, as well as giving the gift of what could be. It is remarkable how things that never were and never will be can serve us in life. Our fantasy worlds give us gifts like the concept of inclusion of all species, and people, even those from outer space. Fantasy gives human voices and words to animals and machines, even robots. Fantasy helps us learn to empathize with people and creatures wholly different from ourselves. It teaches us to think before we react to something unfamiliar as well as how our words might make those who are not like us feel. We hope that this collection of stories will inspire your child similarly with characteristics such as friendship, courage, equality, hope, generosity, patience, inclusion, conservation, and love for all. Dream the sweetest dreams, little ones! Explore more unicorns by buying this book now!

Children Learn Business Children Learn Business 2015-10-24 The most successful professionals starting learning business concepts at a very early age. Having these childhood experiences proved most valuable as adults. They grew up and entered the workforce leagues ahead of their peers in social skills, communication, and business acumen. Children are quick to learn from others and adapt to their environment, more so than any other age. Knowing this, we must ask ourselves an important question. If the best time to learn is during childhood, why there is a significant lack of business education tailored for children? Millions of children's books are available for sale, however they are written on tales of a fantasy world where animals can speak, everyone is free from responsibility, and there is no conflict. As expected, these books add no value to a child's development and may even paint an unrealistic viewpoint of the world.

Which Way? Lidia Stanton 2017-07-07 For page samples, follow the link: <https://books.lidiastanton.com/whichway>

This colourful and highly engaging resource is written for children as young as 4-5 years old but also those in Key Stage 2 of primary school (up to 9 years old) who continue to feel confused by letter and digit shapes. The latter group might become so discouraged that they avoid writing, or write very little, despite having great imaginations. They start doubting their ability to simply 'know' the correct way when writing b/d, p/q, p/g, 9/g, 6/9, s/z, 5/S, S/3, etc. Most teachers and parents are very good at playing down the reversals and encouraging the child to have another go. They say, "It's fine, it's still good writing. I love what you've written here." Yet, after so many attempts and after so many teacher corrections on the page, the child begins to think, "This writing game might not be for me after all". Those with dyslexia will have additional phonological difficulties to manage alongside poor memory for graphic shapes. This workbook is for children who can trace well at speed, thus appear to have developed adequate motor memory in their fingers, yet struggle to remember 'which way' to write the letter or digit. It is very likely that they will be ready to integrate this type of linear visual-spatial information at a later time. For now, they have no real-life representation, or model, of a handful of graphic shapes in their brains, and this, in turn, can affect their confidence in writing independently. This resource offers practical and long-term 'tricks' that will trigger the child's memory at the right moment. It adopts a complementary approach to traditional letter formation teaching to bridge the gap between children who are proficient graphic writers and those whose brains make different sense of graphic information. Many children with dyslexia and dysgraphia will particularly benefit from completing the workbook. How to use the resource The child doesn't need to work through the entire book. Choose sections that are relevant to their needs. Younger children (aged 4-6) will almost certainly need assistance when working with the resource, although older ones will no doubt choose to work independently, showing their practised strategies and completed activities to teachers and parents. It is recommended that section 7 (Use your whole body) is attempted with the help of an older helper or adult. There are more than one method to help distinguish between b/d/p and s/z in this workbook. Introduce the child to only one method at a time, evaluate the child's progress, and decide whether there is a need to move on to the next one. Some children are more practical than visual - the 'Use your hands' strategy might be sufficient for them. Other children might enjoy more visual strategies in sections 4, 5 and 6. In my experience, section 7 (Use your whole body) works well with children who need to 'experience' concepts in a multi-sensory manner. Pay attention to the child's initial response to a particular method. It will guide you along. You can mix and match strategies. Some children don't confuse b/d as much but struggle with p/9. Some activities can be completed independently of the section the child is currently working through. For example, Activity 7 can be attempted after completing the 'Use your hands' section. Flick through the book to decide which activities appear to be suitable to the child's current progress.
