NICOMACHEAN ETHICS Aristotle 2017-04-20 EVERY art and every inquiry, and similarly every action and pursuit, is thought to aim at some good; and for this reason the good has rightly been declared to be that at which all things aim. But a certain difference exists among ends; some are activities, others are products apart from the activities that produce them. Where there are ends apart from the activities, it is the nature of the products to be better than the activities. Now, as there are many actions, arts, and sciences, there are many ends; the end of the medical art is health, that of shipbuilding a vessel, that of strategy victory, that of economics wealth. But such arts fall under a single capacity- as bridle-making and the other arts concerned with the equipment of horses fall under riding, and this and every military action under strategy, in the same way other arts fall under yet others- in all of these the master arts are to be preferred to all the subordinate ends; for it is for the sake of the former that the latter are pursued. It makes no difference whether the activities themselves are the ends of the actions, or something else apart from the activities, as in the case of the sciences just mentioned.

Things Fall Apart Chinua Achebe 2009-06-05 THINGS FALL APART tells two overlapping, intertwining stories, both of which center around Okonkwo, a "strong man" of an Ibo village in Nigeria. The first of these stories traces Okonkwo's fall from grace with the world in which he lives, and in its classical purity of line and economical beauty it provides us with a powerful fable about the conflict between the individual and society. The second story, which is as modern as the first is ancient, and which elevates the tragic plane, concerns the clash of cultures and the destruction of Okonkwo's world through the arrival of aggressive, proselytizing European missionaries. These twin dramas are perfectly harmonized, and they are modulated by an awareness capable of encompassing once the life of nature, human history, and the mysterious compulsions of the soul. THINGS FALL APART is the most illuminating permanent monument we have to the modern African experience as seen from within.

Act Like a Lady, Think Like a Man Steve Harvey 2010-06-01 Steve Harvey, the host of the nationally syndicated Steve Harvey Show, can't count the number of impressive women he's met over the years, whether it's through the "Strawberry Letters" radio program or while on tour for his comedy shows. Nineteen Eighty-Four George Orwell 2021-01-09 "Nineteen Eighty-Four: A Novel", often published as "1984", is a dystopian social science fiction novel by English novelist George Orwell. It was published on 8 June 1949 by Secker & Warburg as Orwell's ninth book completed in his lifetime. Thematically, "Nineteen Eighty-Four" centres on the consequences of totalitarianism, mass surveillance and repressive regimentation of persons and behaviours within society. Orwell, himself a democratic socialist, modelled the government in the novel after Stalinist Russia. More broadly, the novel examines the role of truth and facts within politics and how they are manipulated. The story takes place in an imagined future, the year 1984, when much of the world has fallen into a state of perpetual war, omnipresent government surveillance, historical negationism, and propaganda. Great Britain, known as Airstrip One, has become a province of a totalitarian superstate named Oceania that is ruled by the Party who employ the Thought Police to monitor individuality and independent thinking. Big Brother, the leader of the Party, enjoys an intense cult of personality despite the fact he may not even exist. The protagonist, Winston Smith, is a diligent and skillful rank-and-file worker and Outer Party member who hates the Party and dreams of rebellion. He enters into a forbidden relationship with a colleague, Julia, and starts to remember what life was like before the Party came to power.

Face to Face Meetings With Jesus Christ Pdf (PDF) Antang 2014-08-15 One common attribute we all share as humans is the fact that whenever there is an important future event, we always make necessary preparations in anticipation of an outcome from that event. We do this with childbirth, graduation from school, marriage, vacation, and death. But when it comes to the second visit of Jesus Christ leading to the End of the Age, we seem to care less about the need for some serious preparations. Before death, we will all have a brief pause in life when we subconsciously without notice start to briefly analyze our path; where we came from, where we are, and where we think we are going after death. After this unprecedented brief moment, our next step is largely determined by the analysis of that pause. That you accepted Jesus Christ as the son of God is not enough to save you from hell; you must repent and live by God's law to enter His Paradise in Heaven. Anybody can believe in Jesus Christ; but not everybody can live for Jesus Christ. God made you for a specific unique supernatural divine purpose beyond your imaginable dreams. This book will guide you, restore you, energize you, and move you to that place where you seriously start to prepare to have your salvation completely sealed through him as you seek to please God through Jesus Christ. This book is a sequel to "Face to Face Meetings with Jesus Christ".

Named a Most Anticipated Book of 2022 by Oprah Winfrey, Today, Parade, Marie Claire, Bustle, PopSugar, Katie Couric Media, BookBub, SheReads, Medium, The Washington Post, and more! One summer. Two rivals. A plot twist they didn't see coming... Nora Stephens' life is books—she's read them all—and she's the type of heroine. But why she agrees to go to Sunshine Falls, North Carolina for the month of August when Libby begs her for a sisters' trip away from the city is a mystery. It's supposed to be a small town transformation for Nora, who she's convinced needs to become the heroine in her own story. But instead of a quiet life in meadows, or run-ins with a handsome country doctor or bulging-forearmed bartender, Nora keeps bumping into Charlie Lasting, a brooding editor from back in the city. It would be a meet-cute if not for the fact that they've met many times and it's never been a good first meeting. Nora knows she's not an ideal heroine, Charlie knows he's nobody's hero, but as they are thrown together again and again—through a series of coincidences no editor worth their salt would allow—what they discover might just unravel the carefully crafted stories they've written about themselves.

"[Remarque] is a craftsman of unquestionably first rank."—The New York Times Book Review I am young, I am twenty years old, and I have nothing of life but despair, death, fear, and fatuous superficiality cast over an abyss of sorrow. . . . But the duty, culture, and progress they had been taught breaks in pieces under the first bombardment in the trenches.
